Description of activities	The activities of the research group of wastes bio-recycling on the department of applied ecology focus on the design on biotechnological projects for processing of secondary resources (organic and inorganic wastes) with the production of biofuels and other useful bio-products. Investigations includes the anaerobic microbial degradation of sewage sludge with mineral additive (phosphogypsum) with deposition of heavy metals in a complex unsoluble fraction and production of biomethane and biofertilizer.

Other comments	We work close with other research groups of university and all interested in anaerobic digestion processes and by-products bioconversion.
Expectations from Record Biomap, e.g. - to find consortium partners for possible projects? - do you already know any funding call or other funding opportunities? - attend our planned workshops? - to find customers?	Interesting in finding consortium partners for possible projects
